

Walking On Back

Imagine laying face down on the massage table. The massage therapist is hovering over you and kneading your back muscles with their heels of their feet working on those pressure points in your shoulders and back.